ELKS BOWLING SEASON ENDS WITH VICTORY FOR THE CHAMPS

Winners in the Second Division Take Full Honors Over the Packers

TOURNAMENT TO BE HELD LATER

The Champs lived up to their name Monday night by defeating the Packers two out of three games at the Elks' bowling alleys, and thus earned the title of being the real champions of the two seasons, which ended with their victory over their rivals.

The Packers had won the premier title for the first half of the season, while the Champs led the race in the second period. The contest Monday evening was the "play-off," the winner to hold undisputed champions for the entire season. The contest naturally drew quite a gallery, and the games were full of interest.

The Champs got away to a good start, and decisively defeated the Packers in the first game, winning by 92 pins. However, the Packers had a punch left, and came back strong, taking over the Champs by 15 pins, not a large number, of course, but sufficient to win the game.

Then both teams "got set" for the "rubber" and it was nip and tuck almost all the way, the Champs finally showing better form and taking the game and title by a margin of 39 pins. Tonight the Champs will roll the Oilers the first of a series of three games, total pins to count, the losers to furnish a supper for the winners. After these games arrangements will be made to stage a bowling tournament, singles, doubles, etc. Score:

ALLEGED FIREBUG TO BE TRIED THIS WEEK

Benjamin Bevier, of Fayette City, who was arrested last fall and charged with arson in connection with the incendiary fires in that locality, will be tried at the March term of criminal court in Fayette county, now in session. He claims that he set fire to a pair of overalls in a garage where he was employed and carried them into the street to perpetrate a joke upon the guards.

PRICE OF OIL FOR ROAD WORK SHOWS BIG DROP

Bids for furnishing 6,000,000 gallons of bituminous oils for treatment of macadam road surfaces during the coming season, submitted to the State Highway Department, showed a drop of approximately a cent and a half a gallon over 1920 prices and a saving to the state of more than $90,000. Nearly twenty trains of 750 cars will be required to transport the tremendous quantities of tar and asphaltic material.

DRIVER CONVICTED OF ABANDONING INJURED

R. C. Lawton, of Marianna, was convicted of abandoning an injured person on the highway, by a jury Saturday afternoon last in the Fayette county courts. The case grew out of an automobile accident on the National Pike west of Uniontown about 8 30 o'clock on the afternoon of August 22, 1920, at which time Charles Dwyer of Homewood, received injuries to a leg, and his daughter, Margaret, 11 years of age, sustained a fractured skull. Woodrow Wilson of Uniontown, was the only witness for the plaintiff. He testified that he was driving near the scene of the accident and saw the defendant driving a Chevrolet car, strike the Dwyer car and speed by. He said he secured the number of the car and then took the injured to the hospital. Later in the day he said he saw the Lawton car standing in front of the West End Hotel in Uniontown, with the same occupants as when it struck the Dwyer car.

Lawton testified that he attended the Church of God that afternoon and had a number of witnesses who corroborated his story. He said he had never been in Uniontown but once, and that was August 29, 1920.

TO BEGIN WORK ON THE SPEERS ROAD

County Commissioners and officials of Washington county on Monday discussed with officials of the State Highway Department at Harrisburg, plans for the approval of the state highway from Speers to Coal Center. Agreement was made to proceed with one section, the other to wait until a bridge case is determined by the Public Service commission. From which it would appear that finally we are to get action on this very important highway in a very short time.

TITLE CLASHES ARE NOW ON THE CARD

Charleroi high school basket ball players will be interested in the outcome of the title series in the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic league, which will be held under the auspices of the University of Pittsburgh, at Trees Stadium. The opening game will take place this evening, at which time the Bellevue and Ford City teams, leaders of the second and sixth sections respectively will contest for honors in the first of the elimination series.

McKeesport, leader in the fifth section, will contest with Braddock, of the third district, Thursday evening, while Fifth avenue, of the first section, will compete with Beaver Falls, of the fourth section Saturday evening.

The winner of the first game will play the winner of the third game in the semi-final contest Tuesday evening, March 22, and the winner of this game will meet the winner of the McKeesport-Braddock game, possibly on the following Thursday evening. Locals are of the opinion that McKeesport will win the final game, but basket ball, like base ball, often takes some very queer turns. You never can tell.

LUMBER DEALERS WILL REDUCE THEIR PRICES

Lumber dealers in Western Pennsylvania took a loss of $3,600,000. These figures were quoted at the annual meeting and election of the Retail Lumber Dealers' Association of Pennsylvania held in Pittsburgh last Friday. These losses were taken voluntarily to bring lumber prices down to a figure that would encourage building construction, it was said. Despite these losses not one failure was reported among the 500 dealers. Lumber is now said to be down to pre-war levels, with the exception of freight rates, which average about $3 a thousand feet of lumber.

HANCOCK'S CONDITION VERY ENCOURAGING

GOOD SHOWING BY PITTSBURGH PLATE

The report of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company, issued on Monday, covering operations for the year ended December 31, 1920, made an excellent showing as regards both earnings and financial condition. The balance sheet shows assets of $30,984,625, and current accounts payable of only $3,182,798. The company has no bills payable and no funded debt. An item in the report, which attracted much attention, was the amplitude of the reserves set up against Federal taxes and against possible depreciation in inventories. After deducting $2,262,180 for depreciation and obsolescence, a reserve of $5,500,000 for estimated Federal taxes, and $4,850,000 for possible inventory deflation, (a total of $12,612,180) net earnings remaining at $8,595,916, equivalent to a little more than $22 a share on the outstanding stock.

DONORA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ORGANIZES

The Board of Directors of the new Donora Chamber of Commerce has been organized by the election of J. E. Clark, superintendent of the Donora Steel works, as president; Ben G. Binns, of the First National Bank, as vice-president, and Al O'Donnell, of the Union Trust company as treasurer. The Board has not as yet elected a permanent secretary, but will do so in a few days. Joseph F. Guy, of Chambersburg, who visited Charleroi during the local campaign, and C. R. Pratt, formerly with the Ambridge Board of Trade, are applicants, but the board wishes to hear others who are candidates for the position.

THREE MILLS RESUME AT WASHINGTON, PA.

Three mills of the Washington Tin Plate plant went into operation Monday night, after a two weeks' shutdown. How long these will be kept in operation the management was not able to say, as it is not an easy matter at this day and date to make predictions for the future. It is hoped that business may be such that these mills will be kept going steadily.

COUNTY WOOL SELLS AT 35 CENTS A POUND

About 50,000 pounds of wool were purchased in Donegal, East and West Finley townships, last week, for D. M. Campsey of Claysville, at 35 cents a pound. It has been almost two years since a similar activity in wool delivery has been noted in that locality. The growers waited for almost a year before disposing of their clips.

VERDICT BY AGREEMENT AGAINST LOCAL SOCIETY

Charleroi Plaintiff is Given $700 in Settlement of Insurance Claim

TRIAL WAS NOT COMPLETED

The fourth week of common pleas court convened Monday afternoon and the first case taken up was that of Zora Volvovic, for herself and three children, against the National Slovak Society. It was a claim for insurance alleged due under a policy held with the defendant society. The husband of the plaintiff, now presumed dead, was a member of the Charleroi branch of the society. He disappeared in August of 1906 and has not been heard of since that time. The widow avers that at the time her husband disappeared he was in good standing in the society and that after his disappearance, it being believed he was dead, dues were paid for her husband. The payment of these dues were stopped only when, it is alleged, the officers of the society gave notice that no more dues need be paid, but that no insurance would be paid until it was legally established that Volvovic was dead.

Not until 1916 was a decree of court obtained declaring Volvovic dead. Then demand was made for the insurance alleged due, and payment was refused. The defense alleged that at the time Volvovic disappeared his dues were in arrears, and that shortly after he disappeared he was expelled, and that the organization is not obliged to pay the claim. Shortly after the case was called a verdict for $700, was taken by agreement. The claim had been for $1,000.

CUDDY DEMARCO WINS ANOTHER FAST BOUT

In a fast three round bout held in Greensburg on Saturday last, Cuddy DeMarco defeated Jack Hanly of that place. DeMarco was too clever for the Greensburg boy, who had won twenty-one straight victories. A number of other bouts took place, in one of which Emmett Lee, of North Charleroi, won over Rocky Kanzos.

Paul Rowe of Charleroi beat Young Morelli of Greensburg and Young Louisiana of Charleroi fought a draw with Kid Mayo of Greensburg.

SEATS SOLD FAST FOR "FI-FI" SHOW

The demand for reserved seats for "Fi-Fi" at the high school yesterday afternoon, was so great that in but a brief while every seat had been sold for Wednesday evening, while the Thursday evening chart showed that only a few seats remained for that performance. The response on the part of the general public was especially gratifying, and the success of the venture, from a financial standpoint, is assured. The participants are determined to demonstrate their appreciation of this fact by putting up a performance which will not fail to please. Special scenery will be used, and, all in all, "Fi-Fi" promises to ensure a pleasurable evening to all who attend either performance.

Among the groups which will appear at each performance, but, inadvertently, whose names do not appear on the printed program, is that of the Bridesmaids, who are as follows:

Margaret Wilson, Mary Speers, Gladys Woodward, Dorothy Shroud, Pa Campbell, Pearl Fellows, Alberta Henderson, Mildred Carnahan, Marie Lancaster, Kathryn Frye, Blanche Urben, Audrey Eneix, Celeste O'Hara, Mary McManus, Mary Underwood and Dorothy Abraham.

The basement work under the big vaults is already under way.

HOW TO TREAT A BURGLAR.

What ought you to do when you wake up in the night and find a burglar in your room? This question has been variously answered. A Camden, N. J., girl answered it by lying still and keeping the corner of one eye open and then, when the burglar had crossed the hall to another room, by getting up quietly, grabbing her gun, taking careful aim, and neatly bringing down the game. An excellent plan—when it succeeds. But if the Camden girl had not had a chance to get her gun, if she had not known how to shoot and had missed, what then? She might have been hurt, and if she had been a man she might now be dead. It is even questionable whether her sex would have lessened her risks. A burglar eager to escape a prison term might be indifferent to things so unimportant as the moment as sex.

Some people hold that if you are a man you should get up and fight. Others contend that you should lie still and play 'possum even if you are a man. Still others advise yelling to rouse the neighbors, but obviously this is as risky as fighting unless first you have been able to put a locked and strong door between you and the burglar. "Don't shoot burglars," advises a government representative when addressing an audience recently. But some people will continue to shoot, some will go on lying still, while others will shout for help as before. In each instance what is done will depend on the individual concerned and the impulse of the moment. Doubtless there are many persons who think they know precisely what they would do, but some of these will be more fully informed and better acquainted with themselves after an experience.

ENGLAND NOT BOUND.

Viscount Grey, the earnest but disappointed peacemaker of 1914, now comes forward to make it clear, and does make it clear, that in the event of war between Japan and the United States, Great Britain would not be bound to go, and would not go, to the assistance of her Japanese ally. Speaking of war between the two great branches of the English-speaking peoples as "unthinkable and inconceivable," he says: "I would much rather that people, especially in the United States, where they have been discussing this question, brought out the plain fact that we have a treaty with the United States which, if it be observed, will make war practically impossible. We have a treaty under which, if the two governments can not agree, they will resort to a commission which will invtstigate and report and recommend a settlement, and under which a year's time is given for reflection before a breach of the peace takes place."

When the Anglo-Japanese treaty was revised, says Lord Grey, Great Britain proposed and Japan agreed "that in the event of a quarrel between Japan and any country with whom Great Britain had a treaty of universal arbitration there was no obligation upon us to do otherwise than keep the treaty." The United States was in mind when this clause was inserted, according to Lord Grey. Apparently the Anglo-Japanese treaty was designed to cope with conditions in the Far East, and there is good reason to believe that there would be no such treaty if there were a British India.

SLEEPING SICKNESS.

The mysterious disease so named first appeared in this country in the winter of 1916-1918 and is believed to have been brought from Europe where cases developed as early as 1916. But not until this winter did the plague spread to any extent. Between January 1 and February 18 of this year 417 cases were reported in this country, and 93 of these have resulted fatally. The cities reporting cases and their number are as follows: New York 187; Chicago 70; Boston 39; Detroit 24; Cleveland 16; Somerville, Mass. 10; Baltimore 10. Up to February 18 the first death had been reported in New York, but the local health authorities were said to be coping successfully with the malady and to expect decrease rather than increase in the number of cases.

It is important as well as interesting to learn that sleeping sickness "often starts with a bad cold" and is not likely to have serious results, "unless persons neglect to take the usual precautions against colds," and that "prompt treatment" checks its progress. It is also well to know that in the cities where the disease is prevalent the physicians urge all possible preventive measures. Citizens are advised to avoid persons suffering from colds, to stay in the open air as much as possible, to dress warmly, and to mingle in crowds no more than necessary. Washing the hands and mouth in disinfectants after being in a crowd is also recommended. It is gratifying to hear that physicians are not greatly alarmed because "the disease can be prevented by the simplest means and it not contagious in the ordinary sense."

PROMETHEUS UNBOUND.

It is beside the point for Mr. Lamont or anyone else to assure Mr. Harding that President Wilson entered into no secret understanding with foreign diplomats while in Paris with regard to the disposition of the $10,000,000,000 debt owed by the Allies to the United States, and that therefore, the new President is free to act in the matter. Everybody knows that Mr. Wilson did nothing, secretly or otherwise, in Paris that has the slightest binding effect on this country today. His treaty and league stand rejected, his promised alliance with France has never been ratified, and his entire trip abroad was absolutely abortive so far as his representation of the United States is concerned.

President Harding's inauguration cost the country $2,500, leaving $47,500 of the amount originally appropriated to be turned back into the treasury. More than that, the Hardings will refuse to have the living rooms at the White House refurnished at this time at a cost of $10,000, which the government would pay. The new administration is for economy and is setting a fine example for the people of the country.

The wise ones may of course be right, who say all we shall need for a navy is flying machines and submarines. Times have not changed since the last war, in which the Americans won though they didn't have flying machines, and the Germans lost, though they had the submarines.

Every time that Germany says she won't, one is inclined to believe that a mistake was made when the armistice was granted just when it had become possible to rush the war to Berlin and dictate terms of peace there.

INTERESTING BIT OF EARLY HISTORY

[illegible] Haddon of Uniontown, who [illegible] studied Jefferson as a Western Pennsylvania historian, has supplemented his literary triumphs by unveiling a life-like picture of George Washington from the trunk of a cherry tree that had matured and blossomed for a hundred years, and was finally blown down on the site of Fort Necessity, in the [illegible] National [illegible] 10 miles east of Uniontown, where Washington fought his first and only lost battle.

When Mr. Haddon found that this tree had stumbled to the storm, he secured the best part of the trunk and had it conveyed to his home in Uniontown and there, after it had been properly seasoned, he cut the bust.

Mr. Haddon, who executed the bust, which is considered by art critics as a fine reproduction of the face of the immortal Washington as can be seen [illegible] is secretary and treasurer of the General Braddock Memorial Park Association, organized in 1909, for the purpose of creating a park from the tract of land on which Braddock died on the night of July 12, 1775, four days after receiving wounds in the battle on the shore of the Monongahela, July 9th, and over whose remains Washington read the burial services, the chaplain having been disabled also by a wound. A plain board fence surrounds Braddock's grave.

Mr. Haddon is the owner of a finely chased gold watchcase that belonged to Braddock. It was found on the Braddock trail near a bubbling spring in 1880. The case is a beautiful specimen of the engraver's art, illustrating in the raised figures the legend of the judgment of Paris, with the figure of the latter in a sitting posture and the standing form of Venus tendering the apple. It bears the name of the engraver, George Mitchell Moser. The watch supposed to have been stolen from the effects of the dying general by a soldier and hidden by the spring with the intention of returning for it at the earliest opportunity, which, however, never came. The works were all corroded and useless when the watch was discovered.

The site of Fort Necessity was owned by Washington when he died, together with a considerable tract of land on which it was the center. His executors sold it to Andrew Parke of Baltimore, whose wife was a relative of Washington and a legatee. It finally came into the possession of Godfrey Fazenbaker, whose son Lewis is the present owner. The latter regards the soil as sacred, and, according to the Philadelphia Record, says it shall never be plowed or tilled while it remains in the possession of the Fazenbaker family. The historic ground with Braddock's monument can be plainly seen by tourists as they pass along the famous old National Pike.

Postmaster General Hays says the postoffice department is not for politics or profits, but for service. Service is what the people want, and what they have a right to expect.

The prevailing rate of wages is not bothering the railroads so much as their being compelled to pay for a lot of work that is not done.

Forenoon Marriages.

Why is noon the traditional and fashionable hour for wedding ceremonies? Because the hour became the customary one in England many years since, when the rule of partaking of the holy communion as the first act together of the married pair was universally obeyed. It was not permissible to celebrate that sacrament after mid-day.

Surely Ample Security.

A housewife hired a darky to carry three tons of coal from the curb. A little later the housewife discovered that she had no money except a five-dollar bill. Calling the darky, who was about half through with the job, she asked him if he could change the bill so that he could get his pay. "Nohm," he replied, "I caint. But I kin git it changed over at de grocery store." The woman hesitated, trying to decide whether to take a chance. "Don' you worry, missus," the darky assured her. "I'll come back wid de change. An' just to show you it's all right, I'll go after it right now, and to'ds this other ton of coal I ain't carried in yet out in the street as security."

High Price Paid for Violin.

A very fine violin by Antonius Stradivari, known in the musical world as the "Muir Mackenzie Strad," was sold for £7,700 at Messrs Puttick and Simpson's [illegible] 1891, the "Strad" is in excellent preservation. Purchased from M. Harrison about 1863 by Lady Muir Mackenzie it was bequeathed to Sir John Muir Mackenzie, and thus derived its modern title. This instrument, one of the longer and earlier type, writes a Daily Chronicle representative, and Lord Harrington sold one for £650. The highest price paid for a "Strad" of the "grand pattern" was £3,000, in 1911.

DON'T NEGLECT COLDS

The first sneeze is nature's signal that you are catching cold. Don't neglect it, for neglect has let many slight colds develop into grippe, influenza or even pneumonia. The time to stop a cold is right at the beginning. The way to treat it is to apply Turpo, the Turpentine Ointment, which fights the cold right at the very root of the trouble, and stops it developing.

Turpo is a clear, pleasant smelling ointment or salve made of distilled Turpentine, Camphor and Menthol, scientifically combined to get the best results of these well known and reliable remedies. It does not stain even the finest fabric. It has proven so successful that over 1500000 jars are sold annually. Turpo gives quicker relief than any indefinite "vapor" treatment.

Your doctor will confirm that Turpo is a valuable home remedy. Your druggist will sell it to you on trial. Money back if not satisfactory.

Sold in white opal jars with the orange and black label, at 30c and 60c.

952 Franklin Cars Shipped in February

Sales Keeping Up to High Level at Syracuse Factory.

Business for the month of February as reported by the Franklin Automobile company of Syracuse show that sales are keeping up to a high level. By February 15 the entire month's production had been sold, and to meet the overdemand the factory was called upon for 100 more cars than planned for. Shipments for the month totalled 952 cars, or within 35 cars of the best February in the company's history—this occurring last year. A new record would have been hung up this year but for the fact that February, 1921 had one less day than February, 1920.

Even with the Franklin factory working on a 40-car-per-day program, which is the present rate of production, it found itself unable to keep up with orders. During February the total number of orders received aggregated 1107, and even the 952-car output fell short of filling orders for February shipment by 155 cars. The manufacturing schedule for March calls for the production of 1031 cars.

DAYLIGHT SAVING WAS DEFEATED AT HARRISBURG

Daylight saving, as expressed in the Edmonds bill, was decisively defeated at Harrisburg on Monday night, by a vote of 56 yeas and 142 nays. This will dispose of the measure in Pennsylvania for the coming two years. Just what will be done locally is another matter, as Pittsburgh, which has an ordinance providing for daylight saving, ruled affairs in this section of the state last year.

DONORA MILLS GO ON EIGHT HOUR TURN

It is reported that the Donora mills would go on a single eight hour turn this morning, with a reduction of 40 per cent in working forces. There will be no change in the wage rate, but the mill forces will be materially reduced, this reduction taking effect in offices as well as other departments in the various mills.

FORD CITY MAN IS TAKEN ILL ON STREET

Charles Hammond, of Ford City, was taken suddenly ill at the corner of McKean avenue and Fifth street Monday forenoon and taken to the local hospital, is improving and will be discharged within a few days. Mr. Hammond told hospital authorities that he had been discharged from a Steubenville hospital about a week ago, and it is presumed he was allowed to go before he had completely recovered from a spell he had takin in that city.

JUDGE McILVAINE GOES TO CAMBRIDGE SPRINGS

Judge J. A. McIlvaine and Mrs. McIlvaine left on Monday for Cambridge Springs, where they will remain until about April 1. During Judge McIlvaine's absence, Judge Haldain B. Hughes, of the Orphan's Court, will assist Judge James I. Brownson in common pleas court.

Mrs. Frank Zwick was injured in an automobile accident last week. She was taken to St. Francis hospital, where it was found that her injuries were not of a serious nature.

There never was a better time to sit tight, never a worse time to be a quitter. A country as well situated as this one can't stay in the doldrums.

"Sentence Hymns."

The term "sentence hymn" came from the practice of earlier days, when hymn books were scarce. In order that all the congregation might be able to join in the singing the pastor would read aloud the first two lines, which were then sung and the reading and singing would continue alternately to the end of the hymn. This practice is still continued in some of the rural churches of the South.

Significance of Dream of Pump.

To dream of a pump signifies that you may with study become a great musician, artist or actor, as your inclination leads you; development is all you require; you have genius. To pump water from a well signifies that you will learn something to your advantage. But if milk comes from the pump it signifies unexpected wealth. If wine or whisky, it denotes much happiness and good fellowship.

Trapped.

"Cross-examined, the defendant said he had merely kissed the young woman in the case under a sprig of mistletoe." "Ah! A clever defense. What did his wife say to that?" She sniffed loud enough to be heard in the corridors of the courthouse and begged to inquire if he carried a sprig of mistletoe suspended over his roadster." —Birmingham Age-Herald.

Phosphorus was discovered accidentally while Brand, a Hamburg alchemist, was experimenting with liquids to find some element that would help transform silver to gold. The discovery, made in 1669, was not regarded then as important, but later developed an importance that was very great.

Fourteenth-Century Playing Cards.

The playing cards of the Fourteenth century differ materially from the pack in use today. The Venetian pack, for example, consisted of 78 cards—22 of them marked with emblems of various kinds and 56 with numerals, divided in four suits of 14 cards each.

DUSKY WORKER OF MIRACLES

Negro Saint, Forbidden to Exercise Power, Put White Bishop in Something of a Hole.

Long ago when Peru was a jewel in the Spanish crown, there lived in that country a negro of such remarkable sanctity that his miracles rivaled those of the best white saints of his time. Fearing for the supremacy of his race, the Spanish bishop took the precaution of forbidding this dark-skinned saint to give any further exhibitions of his power, an order which was accepted with the humility that marks the real saint of every age, land or color. Now, the Spaniards built a cathedral in Lima, and during the building of it a workmen fell from the topmost scaffolding before the horrified eyes of the holy negro. It was a fearful dilemma. A second's delay and the man would be dashed to pieces. "Stop!" he shouted; and leaving the workman hanging in midair he sought out the bishop and explained the situation. If the bishop did not want a poor son of Ham to perform miracles, would he prefer to come and do the job himself? The bishop wisely chose to allow his black sheep to return to the cathedral and "carry on"; the workman fell up again gently to his scaffolding, and the work of building went happily on. —New York Times.

NOTES CONVERTED INTO PULP

Millions of Dollars in Wornout Currency Destroyed Every Week in Small English Village.

A lonely village in Kent, England, is the scene of the destruction of ten tons of treasury notes every Monday. The average face value of the notes destroyed amounts to $100,000,000.

The banks and postmasters determine when the life of a treasury note shall end. If in the opinion of a banker or postmaster a note has become worn out, it is sent to the Bank of England. There a triangular cut is made in the right-hand bottom corner of the note, and it is then sent, in company with millions of its fellows, to the chief money order department of the post office in Holloway.

Every day more than a ton of defunct currency notes are delivered from the Bank of England to the money order department in Holloway. The notes are then defaced, made up into bundles of a thousand and put into sacks. On Monday the sacks containing millions of the defunct currency notes are put into vans and dispatched to their destruction in Kent, where they are converted into pulp.

The World by Color.

If we speak by continents, the really white world consists of Europe, North America to the Rio Grande, the southern portion of South America, the Siberian part of Asia, and Australasia, the last two, of course, being very thinly inhabited. On the other hand, the world of color consists of the bulk of Asia, virtually the whole of Africa, and most of Central and South America. The great bulk of the white race is, of course, concentrated in the European continent. Four-fifths of the entire white race lives on less than one-fifth of the white world's area. Of the colored races the yellow are naturally the most numerous, living in eastern Asia, and numbering over 500,000,000. The browns number more than 450,000,000 while the blacks, whose center is Africa, south of the Sahara desert, total about 150,000,000. The reds are, of course, of less consequence, being few in number.

A Spanish physician claims to have been very successful in curing stubborn cases of hiccoughs by this treatment: The patient lies down and draws up his knees until his thighs are pressed tightly to his abdomen, the lower part of the legs being pressed against the thighs by bending the knees. The position is held for several minutes. The effect of this is to press the abdominal organs up against the diaphragm and to sustain the pressure until the diaphragm ceases its spasmodic contraction.

Forecast for Monday's Child.

People born on Monday (moon's day) need never fear poverty nor will they gain great wealth. They will travel much, marry happily, be skilled in medicine, surgery, geography and mathematics; will be fortunate as navigators, agriculturists, or printers, and may become workers in precious metals, ambassadors, or church dignitaries. They will be subject to catarrh, toothache, and colic, and they will have a blemish in their eyes. They will love life and will live to be over seventy.

That business was not as bad in February as many people were led to believe is shown by the report of the McCrory stores for February. The sale for last month were $1,893,491, as compared with $1,707,938 in February of 1920. Sales for the year to date total $2,796,920 as against

STAMP GUM FROM POTATOES

That Vegetable the Foundation of Sticky Substance That is Used on Postage Stamps.

Every time a person licks a United States postage stamp he gets a taste of a sweet potato. The gum on the stamps comes from that vegetable. All of the gum used on the stamps is mixed at the bureau of engraving and printing, where the stamps are made. It is spread on the sheets after the stamps have been printed.

In a liquid form, the gum is forced up through pipes from the basement, where it is made. These pipes lead to a series of machines consisting of rollers between which the sheets stamps are fed one at a time. A fine spray of the liquid falls upon the rollers. The sheet with its wet coating of sweet potato mucilage passes from the rollers into a long horizontal chute, lined with hot air. When it comes out at the other end of the chute it is dry.

There are two kinds of postage machines. If one could see the packages of stamps as they come to the postoffice ready to be sold, one would find them labeled, according to season, "summer gum" or "winter gum." The latter is much the harder of the two, and was devised to keep the stamps from getting sticky in warm moist weather.

HAVE THEIR TIME TO FALL

Nature Has Made Provision for the Parting of the Leaves From the Parent Tree.

One of the most beautiful processes in nature is the fall of the leaf. This is not, as is commonly supposed, brought about by the inclement weather of the autumn, says a well-known authority. For the underlying cause one must look deeper.

Soon after the leaf appeared in the spring preparations were being made for its fall. Across the base of the stalk there grew inward a partition of special cells, known to botanists as the "layer of separation." As the season advances these cells become modified and weakened so that a springy cushion is formed. Eventually the mere weight of the leaf may be sufficient to bring about the severance of the organ which the tree no longer requires.

Before the leaf actually falls it surrenders all that it possesses in the way of sugar and more complex stuffs. This passes back into the tree to be stored away in the stems.

The Two Frogs.

Tough going, isn't it. Almost tempted to give way to despair, perhaps. The prospect of winning out looks pretty hopeless? Maybe it will revive your faith and fortitude a teeny-weeny bit if you recall the story of the two frogs that fell into the can of milk. Try as they would, you may remember, the frogs could not leap out of the can, but fell back into the milk each time they jumped. Finally, one frog whined: "What's the use of trying, we can never get out." So he curled up and was drowned. But the other frog, possessed of more determination and perseverence, kept on struggling and struggling until lo! the milk began to be churned into butter, and then it was easy for him to get out of the difficulty.

Keep on struggling!—Forbes Magazine.

A couple of correspondents have favored us with the following illiteracies overheard in public places. One reports hearing a girl remark to her friend what she thought of "Les Miserables," Victor Herbert's masterpiece. The other correspondent writes: Two handsomely dressed women met in a street car and after an affectionate greeting, one said: "Why, how well you look, my dear! Pos-i-tive-ly you have the gift of the perannual youth." "Yes," returned the other complacently, "so everyone says—and just think, only last week me and my husband celebrated our twentieth universary."

Moon Not Always Dead.

The moon is an example of star material that is nearly dead, and our own earth another, although each is but a tiny speck of the original system. It was once, says science, a part of the sun or star, and was thrown off by force of gravity, and being so small it cooled far more rapidly than the sun has. The sun that to us seems so great and so far brighter and larger than the stars, in reality is but a speck to many stars that in themselves are thousands of times greater than our sun, but so great is their distance from us that they seem like pin points.

Man of Few Words.

"What did Hogan say when Kelly called him a liar?"

"Nothin' much."

"That's funny. Hogan used to be a hot-tempered guy."

"Well, he never said a word except, 'Have ye had enough yet?'"—American Legion Weekly.

An Art Contest.

"You do not quote as much poetry in your speeches as you used to."

"No," said Senator Sorghum. "The last time I quoted poetry the rival orator got up and sang a song. My managers insisted it was up to me to come back with a classic dance, so I gave up the competition and am now relying on the simple statesmanlike dignity of plain prose."

GUEST MUST HAVE APPETITE

Stamina and Endurance Also Needed for Consuming "Simple Little Dinner" in Roumania.

An interesting personal experience was an invitation to dinner with a real Roumanian family (in Bucharest). What seemed to me a countless array of dishes containing most delectable dainties was arranged on a sideboard in the apartment where we were received.

First came pastrama, small pieces of mutton spiced with garlic, a kind of native ham. This pastrama has a limited appeal. But a person entirely new to it for the first time cannot swallow it. He chews it and chews it like a piece of American gum, first in the cheek and then in the other, with little idea what to do with it. It is an embarrassing situation, because the pastrama is served in the people's own and you are expected to eat what you are eating it. I received my portion in an unguarded moment while conversing with an enchanting girl at my left elbow. Then we went into the dining room.

One course followed the other. One element lost in an inquiring spirit because the dishes are all novel and delicious—or likes his food—for those of four hours. At the conclusion, the hostess apologizes for the simple fare, explaining that the occasion is informal. Indeed, I was informed in the most delightful manner possible that the hostess had expected to have a quiet dinner with the artist—Leo Slezak, member of Royal Opera Company of Vienna, in the Vienna Neue Freie Presse.

EBONY BURNED AS FIREWOOD

Mahogany Also Employed for Floors in Burma, According to Statement of Missionary.

The people of Burma burn ebony as firewood and use mahogany for floors, but the dance music is abominable, according to Rev. John Tilden Latta, returned missionary.

The chief function of music and the weird dances in the land of the golden peacock is to drive away the evil spirits, and it is essential to Burmese ideas of "harmony" to have each instrument toned in a different key. But it would be a great place for the children.

Parrots can be bought for a nickel and monkeys for a quarter.

No word in the language has more than one syllable. There are no declensions or conjugations. The Burmese are short on words and hence every word is pronounced in three tones having a different meaning in each. The average wage is 16 cents a day. There are no violent deaths, the plague and malaria being the only scourges. The native doctors prescribe on a principle of opposites. If a man has rheumatism they feed him powdered deer's bones, and the remedy for a sour stomach is sugar.

Dom Joao's botanical garden in Rio, capital of Brazil, is today the finest in the New World and equaled only by that of Buitenzorg, Java, says Harriett C. Adams, in the National Geographic Magazine. Its century-old imported bamboos are as tall as forest trees; its native Victoria Regia lillies most queenly of their kind. Its Royal Palm avenue, almost 1,800 feet long, is second only to Rio's Quadruple Palm avenue bordering the Mangue canal.

In the early days these palms were a mark of the royal distinction and were planted only in parks and avenues near city and county palaces. The story goes that a slave stole some of the seeds and sold them. Today these "feather-dusters of the gods" wave in every part of the city. At present there is a free distribution of seeds and plants from the botanical garden.

Color and Horse Character.

An old cavalry officer says that one may judge the constitution and character of a horse from its color. Bright chestnuts and light bays are high spirited, but nervous and delicate. Dark chestnuts and glossy blacks are hardy and more tempered. Rich bays have great spirit, but are teachable. Dark and iron grays are hardy and sound, while light grays are the opposite.

Roans, either strawberry or blue are the hardest, and best working of all, even tempered, easiest to train taking kindly to everything. Rusty blacks are distinguished for their pig headedness. A horse's "white-stockings" give another clue to character. A horse with one white leg is a bad one, with two its temper is uncertain with three it is absolutely safe, with four may be trusted for a while only

Taxes we can Reduce

Over 150 Years Ago Benjamin Franklin said:

"Friends, the taxes are indeed very heavy, and if those aid by the Government were the only ones we had to pay, we might more easily discharge them; but we have many others, and much more grievous to some of us. We are taxed twice as much by our idleness, three times as much by our pride, and four times as much by our folly; and from these taxes the commissioners cannot ease or deliver us by allowing an abatement."
